

2015 DIANET INTERNATIONAL SCHOOL

The role of cultural heritage for the sustainable development of the Danube Region
Gorizia March 14th - 23rd, 2015
Call for applications

Humanity is facing grand challenges. “Sustainable Development” is a shorthand for addressing these challenges. While decades of efforts have brought progress in some areas, the overall necessary transformation has not been adequately addressed. Interdisciplinary teamwork is a prerequisite for sustainable development, in particular, if the specific challenges of a region are to be taken into account. To address the challenges of the future, the legacies of the past have to be considered. This consideration is missing from a lot of sustainability-oriented teaching and research.

We would like to introduce you to a perfect opportunity to learn about this missing competence in an international, interdisciplinary setting. In the period 2013-2015, the University of Trieste in cooperation with the Alpen-Adria-Universität Klagenfurt, the University of Natural Resources and Life Sciences (BOKU) Vienna and the University of Novi Sad, offer a unique opportunity for young career researchers to familiarize themselves with issues pertinent to the sustainable development of the Danube River Basin. While the 2013 and 2014 editions were dedicated to “Interdisciplinary Methods for the Sustainable Development of the Danube Region” and “The Role of Natural Heritage for the Sustainable Development of the Danube Region” respectively, the 2015 edition will focus on “The Role of Cultural Heritage for the Sustainable Development of the Danube Region”.

DIAnet International Schools are part of the Capacity Building Module of the Danube:Future project, a Flagship Project of the EUSDR - the European Union Strategy for the Danube Region, in the Priority Area Knowledge Society. Danube:Future is a joint network project of the Alps-Adriatic Rector’s Conference (AARC) and the Danube Rector’s Conference (DRC). It aims at capacity building in the Danube River Basin (DRB) and at providing networking to aid the development common research projects for a sustainable future of the DRB.

PhD Students and Post-Doc Research Fellows from AARC and DRC Universities from all countries of the Danube Basin are welcome to apply for one, two or all three schools. The organizing universities will issue a certificate of 3 ECTS for the completion of each edition. During the School, students will gain knowledge about the role of cultural heritage for the sustainable development of the Danube river basin (DRB). The School covers a wide range of subjects. During the two lecture days, students will receive training in Conservation and Preservation and Valorization of cultural heritage. Two full-day excursions to the area of Torviscosa and Villa Manin (day 1) and to the area of Trieste (day 2), will offer a unique opportunity for students to engage with the sustainability challenges of the Macro-Region.

The second half of the school is dedicated to group work by students. Participants will be divided into six working groups, each of them representing a variety of disciplines and countries as well as PhD-students and young post-doc researchers. Working groups will identify a common idea for a future project, which addresses one of the societal challenges of Horizon 2020 and takes into account the challenges of the DRB. Draft project proposals developed in working groups should ideally represent a part of an application to a funding authority. Group presentations with direct feedback by an evaluation committee will end the experience. English is the official language of the School.

The sustainability challenges addressed by Horizon 2020 requires international and interdisciplinary approaches. Each of these challenges will play out differently in different areas of Europe and will require both localized knowledge (as reflected, e.g. in knowledge of local languages and historical legacies influencing the available paths for development) and an overarching approach. By linking a specific area, i.e. the Danube River Basin, a target area of a macro-regional strategy of the EU, with the Grand Challenges of Horizon 2020 and building an interdisciplinary network of young scholars, DIAnet schools contribute to the preparation and workability of Horizon 2020. By offering experience in interdisciplinary group work, DIAnet schools engage in capacity building in a crucial area and at a crucial moment. By mapping the EUSDR challenges onto Horizon 2020, DIAnet schools pave the way for successful participation in Horizon 2020. This is a unique opportunity to learn and interact in interdisciplinary groups with a high-level international faculty.

The expertise of the involved institutions ensures high scientific standards and the facilitation of interdisciplinary student groups. Lecturers from the universities of AARC and DRC (the organizing universities and other universities of the Network) and local experts will ensure that students get up-to-date, place-specific instruction.

The Proceedings of the 2013 and 2014 editions can be downloaded directly from the Danube:Future website (www.danubefuture.eu/dianet-international-school).

DIAnet 2015 can be offered to you at minimal cost: living expenses are covered by the European Social Fund (Friuli Venezia Giulia OP 2007/2013). You might also be eligible for travel assistance by your home university. The participation to the School is free: no fees are required.
